DATES ANNOUNCED FOR TAX HEARINGS

Corporation Commission to Hear From Railroads and Other Corporations.

Announcement was made yesterday of a schedule of hearings before the State Corporation Commission for the purpose of ascertaining the value of the properties and the gross transportation receipts of railroads, and the gross receipts of other public service corporations for the current year for purposes of taxation.

Steam railroads and the Pullman Company will be heard on September 2. Electric lines, light, heat and power companies, gas and water companies, will be heard on September 4.

Telephone, telegraph and canal lines, steamboat and express companies, will be heard on September 5.

Notice was sent yesterday to all of the companies doing business in this State that the commission would sit in its offices at the Capitol on the dates given, for the purpose of ascertaining and assessing the value of the properties and the gross transportation receipts of railroads, and the gross receipts of other public service corporations for the current year.

The commission will hear any statement the companies wish to make relative to the assessment of property for taxation, on the dates indicated. Companies are notified, if they have not already done so, to forward their tax report to the clerk of the commission as soon as possible, on or before the date named by the commission for the purpose.

Violated "Jim Crow" Law. Littlejohn Cheatham, the Philadelphia Negro who refused to move his seat on a car of the Richmond and Henrico Railway when ordered to do so by the conductor, was fined $10 yesterday morning in Police Court. Cheatham pleaded ignorance of the law that he was to be no excuse.

Woman Held as Fugitive. Sarah Lujan, alias Sarah Johnson, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Krengel and Atkinson and held at the Police Station as a fugitive from justice in Lynchburg. The woman is said to be wanted on a charge of larceny, and an officer will likely come for her today.

SWANSBORO MAY ENTER PROTEST

Chatham Effort to Upset Liquor Election Likely to Be Followed by Wets.

SAYS CODE WAS VIOLATED

Court Will Be Asked to Decide Question Over Which Lawyers Disagree.

Considerable interest has been aroused locally by the efforts of the liquor interests of Chatham to have a recent local option election in that town invalidated. Should they prevail, it is probable that the election by which Swansboro and Manchester Magisterial District, Chesterfield County, went dry, will also be declared invalid.

The grounds upon which the fight is being made are based on Section 536, Code of Virginia, which says: "No election under this chapter" that dealing with local option and other special enactments "shall be held within thirty days of any county, corporation, State or national election."

Both the election in Chatham and that in Swansboro were held less than thirty days before the primary election of August 5. That in Swansboro was held on July 17, and resulted in a dry victory by a majority of forty-five votes. The liquor interests immediately stated their intention of protesting the election on the ground that several boys had been permitted to vote. Both would have been eligible to have exercised the right of franchise in the primary in August, as they would have been of age before the general election in November.

Must Not Be Within Thirty Days. While the "wets" claim that the law expressly prohibits the holding of a special election within thirty days of any election, their opponents assert that a general and not a primary election is intended by the act. That the Legislature had no such intention at the time of the passage of the law, as there was then no legalized primary, is the answer of the liquor people.

One drink cost Mounted Policeman $100. The fine was imposed upon him last night when he was convicted of being drunk at the monthly meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners. Krug was reported by Sergeant Martin to Chief of Police Werner several days ago for being under the influence of liquor. The charge was passed on to Mayor Ainslie, and came up last night before the board.

"I had left home to come on duty," explained Krug, "and was stopped by a friend while passing his home. I complained of feeling ill and he suggested that I take a drink, and I did. I went to the station to report for duty and I could feel the effects of the liquor, though I certainly was not drunk."

Krug, who has a splendid reputation as a mounted officer, was once before reported for being under the influence of liquor. After his hearing the commissioners briefly considered the case and decided to impose the fine and reprimand him.

Each Exonerated. A complaint against Patrolman M. T. Eacho, of the First District, of detaining two boys who had in their possession a quantity of tobacco, bought by them from a factory, until he could ascertain how they got it, was dismissed. The board was of the opinion that Eacho carried out his duty and exonerated him.

A charge of neglect of duty against Bicycle Policeman J. J. Matt, of the First District, was laid on the table at the request of the officer. No other business was transacted by the commissioners with the exception of the usual routine work.

LEAVES FOR DENVER

Governor Mann and Mrs. Mann to Attend Conference of Governors. Governor and Mrs. William Hodges Mann left yesterday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock over the Chesapeake and Potomac Railway for Denver, Colo., to attend the annual Conference of Governors. The Governor will be away from the State for four days in this connection.

The Conference of Governors met in Richmond last year, and Governor Mann has many intimate acquaintances among the members. During his absence Secretary Ben P. Owen will be on the job, with a fixed schedule by which he can take care of the Governor's business by telegraph at any time.

INVITE WILSON TO VISIT STATE FAIR

Committee Asks Montague to Secure Appointment With President Next Friday.

President Peters, of the Common Council, was directed last night by the special Council committee appointed to invite President Wilson and Secretary of Agriculture Houston to attend the State Fair to call on Congressman Montague with the object of securing an appointment with the President for next Friday. If Mr. Montague is successful in arranging for the appointment the committee would then leave for Washington next Friday to arrange the details for the trip. It voted to invite the fair association to send a delegation, including President Henry Fairfax, to accompany it on its trip.

The invitation committee appointed by the Council consists of Mayor Ainslie, President Peters, of the Common Council; President Adams and Vice-President Powers, of the Board of Aldermen; and Councilmen Ratcliffe and Pollock.

It was thought probable when the plan was first broached several months ago that the President would consent to run down to Richmond for a few hours on some day during fair week to make an address. The small inconvenience that would attach to a trip from Washington to Richmond, however, was as the opportunity such a visit would afford the President to appear before a large gathering of citizens from the State of his birth, were two factors that incited the Council to believe that he would come.

NO MOVE MADE TO TABULATE VOTE

State Committee Has Done Nothing Toward Ascertaining Result of Primary.

AWAITING OFFICIAL CALL

Secretary Brenaman Has 850 Precinct Envelops as Yet Unopened.

No agreement has been reached for the official canvass of the returns of the primary of August 5 by the State Democratic Committee. John Garland Pollard gave his approval several days ago to the suggestion that Secretary Brenaman, with a subcommittee of the State Democratic Committee, be authorized to open and tabulate the returns, send for any that may be missing, and have all the information in hand when the State committee meets, the tabulation to be made in the presence of representatives of the candidates. Other candidates have not indicated how they stand on this proposition. Acting Chairman Echols has issued no call for a meeting of the State committee, having no assurance that all the returns are in; there is no way of telling where they are in until the envelopes are opened, and a good many people hold that the envelopes must be opened and tabulated in the presence of the State Democratic Committee.

May All Be Here. Secretary Brenaman has in his safe about 850 of the big official envelopes sent out before the primary for precinct returns. There are about 1,500 precincts in the State. It is known that some of the envelopes were so marked, contain the returns of an entire county. One envelope has the returns from all of the twenty-two precincts in the city of Richmond, forwarded to the State committee by the City Democratic Committee. So, as a matter of fact, all of the returns may be in. Postmarks are indistinct in many cases, and there is no way of telling what the envelopes contain until they are opened.

The primary was held three weeks ago next Tuesday, yet no official steps have been taken by the party authorities to find out who was nominated or to issue the certificates. Secretary Brenaman has made suggestion after suggestion of ways to get out of the dilemma presented by the conflicting clauses of the new primary law, but nothing has been done.

Some Results of Delay. Lieutenant-Governor Ellsby and Commissioner of Agriculture Koiner were elected by popular vote to large terms for them to care particularly about official returns, save to check up their forecasts of their strength in particular counties. The latest unofficial figures have been taken by the committee, give John Garland Pollard a plurality of approximately 2,000 in the race for Attorney-General.

One of the results of the failure of the committee to take any steps toward ascertaining the results is that Judge Samuel W. Williams has never officially admitted defeat or congratulated the winner, though his office tacitly admits that the primary election returns are approximately correct, and that he is beaten by from 1,800 to 2,000 votes. Another result is that Mr. Pollard has not yet announced his intention of running in the office; and still another result is that some considerable bets made on this contest are hung up awaiting an official decision before the money is paid.

ORDWAIN PULLER'S HAT COMES BACK

Wrong Man Annexed It at Annexation Meeting, but Small Ad. Turned the Trick.

Alderman Puller, of Clay Ward, most recently in the public eye as father of the proposal to apply the spotless treatment to the granite base of the Lee Monument, is also a firm believer in annexation along liberal lines. He voted for the Mills plan, which proposes to add sixteen square miles to the city's present corporate area.

But when the annexation becomes too liberal, Mr. Puller holds, when it extends to haberdashery. When the Special Council Committee on Annexation adjourned late on the evening of Monday, August 19, Mr. Puller found that some one had annexed his good-as-new Panama hat and left in its place another Panama hat which was the same size, but not the same texture. A hat is an intimate possession, and, like one's tooth brush, when it is swapped only at the expense of much disturbance of mind.

Three days Mr. Puller waited for the hat to come back. Then he inserted in the Lee and Found Column of The Times-Dispatch the following advertisement: "Will the person who took my Panama hat at the Council annexation meeting last Monday evening please return mine and get his."

Yesterday came the citizen who had inadvertently annexed Mr. Puller's good-as-new Panama and assured the Alderman that the inconvenience resulting from the accidental interchange was mutual, and that with all its faults he was glad to get his own hat back. The chapeaux now adorn the domes of their rightful owners, and the country is safe.

TWO PARDONS

Richmond Boys Go Free if Jobs Are Secured. Fred Gibbs and Emmett Patterson, two Richmond boys, who recently succumbed to the wanderlust and who were caught stealing rides on the Norfolk and Western Railway and sentenced to serve thirty days in jail each, were given conditional pardons yesterday by Governor Mann. The condition was that Davis Bottom, T. Gray Haddon and other Clay Ward citizens are to form a benevolent and protective association for the purpose of securing jobs for the young men, and to see that they stick to them. The Commonwealth's Attorney and the official making the arrests recommended the pardons, and arrangements were made by the Governor's secretary, Ben P. Owen, for tickets to bring both boys back to Richmond.

WANTS TO SUPPLY GAS TO SOUTHSIDE

Manchester Light Company Would Enter Into Competition With City.

HAS THIRTY-YEAR FRANCHISE

Files With Street Committee Plan Showing Proposed Mains and Pipes.

The long-pending case of the Manchester Light, Heat and Power Company took another turn yesterday with the filing with the Council Street Committee of a map showing the location of pipes and mains which the company proposes to lay in the principal streets of South Richmond in the exercise of its franchise granting it the right to engage in the light and power business.

With the blueprint is filed a statement, signed by A. L. Adamson, president of the company, declaring that the Manchester Light, Heat and Power Company proposes to operate a coal gas, carbureted water gas, or mixed water and coal gas system, in substitution of the acetylene service heretofore supplied.

The plan showing the location of proposed pipes and mains is submitted with the request that it be approved by the Council. The communication is advanced from the vice-presidency of the Street Committee to the Street Committee by the Manchester Light, Heat and Power Company.

Has Thirty-Year Franchise. On the face of the communication to the Street Committee it appears as if the Manchester Light, Heat and Power Company intends, after permitting franchise to be practically unopposed, to enter into active competition with the city of Richmond in the business of supplying gas to the Southside. For several years past the owners of the franchise have made repeated efforts to sell it to the city.

The franchise was granted by the former city of Manchester on February 26, 1906, and expires in 1930. The provisions are extraordinarily liberal, permitting the owners to engage in the business of supplying electric light and power as well as gas. Since its granting it has changed hands and is now owned by the Manchester Light, Heat and Power Company, of which A. L. Adamson, George E. Gary, Augustus Royall & Co., A. A. Adkins, E. H. Vaden and W. P. Matthews are the owners.

The company has now in operation a small acetylene plant with a limited equipment of small-bore pipes and valves, and a few miles of mains in the streets of South Richmond. It serves about 150 consumers—chiefly stores and shops. The proposal is now, according to yesterday's developments, to abandon this enterprise and engage in the business of supplying regular coal gas of the quality now supplied in Richmond.

City Has Laid Mains. Under the consolidation agreement between Richmond and Manchester the city undertook to supply Manchester with gas upon the same terms as it supplies it in Richmond to-day. The clause bearing upon this matter reads: "Consolidation went into effect April 15, 1910. More than three years have elapsed, but no gas has as yet been supplied to South Richmond. A fairly complete system of mains and pipes has, however, been installed, and the construction of connecting links across the Manchester roadway at the south end of the new Mayo Bridge and across the dock on the north side.

"The system already in place in South Richmond," said Superintendent Knowles, of the Gas Works, "has cost the city more than $47,000. It embraces most of the important streets, and a sixteen-inch main across the Mayo Bridge which will supply the Southside. This main is extended across South Richmond to almost its corporate limit. With the laying of connecting mains at the south and north ends of the bridge we will be ready to supply gas to the Southside."

Councilmen in touch with the situation declined to regard seriously yesterday the proposal of the Manchester Light, Heat and Power Company to compete with the city in supplying gas. An application for a thirty-year extension of the franchise has been pending before the Street Committee since March 3, but has not been taken up.

When negotiations were in progress looking to the purchase of the franchise by the city, the old Council Light, Heat and Power Company to take over the company's holdings for about $3,000. The sum was declined. A later proposal directing purchase at the company's valuation was rejected by the Council.

SMASH WINDOW TO STEAL HATS

Two Young White Men Run After Stealing Three Straws, but Drop Them in Flight.

Two unidentified young white men this morning, shortly before 1 o'clock, broke an $30 plate glass window in the front of the United Hat Store, 712 East Main Street, took three straw hats and ran. A negro, who heard the crash of the glass, saw the thieves as they ran to an alley between Main and Cary and Eighth and Ninth Streets, and gave chase, while a citizen summoned Patrolman Dugan, who was standing at Tenth and Main Streets.

In their flight the thieves dropped the hats at the mouth of the alley. They were picked up and returned to the store. Good descriptions of the men were obtained, and every effort is being made to locate them. Investigation showed that a brick had been used to smash the glass. Aside from the hats, which were returned, nothing was missing.

DELEGATES END CONVENTION WORK

Railway Blacksmiths Elect H. E. Gamble, of the Pennsylvania Lines, President.

With two meetings yesterday, the twenty-first annual convention of the International Railway Blacksmith Association, which has been in session since Tuesday at the Jefferson Hotel, came to an end. Delegates began leaving early yesterday, and before night most of them had left for their homes. Others will remain over Sunday, but the number is small.

The first business taken up yesterday was the election of officers. The regular routine was reversed in order that the delegates who had to take early trains could have a voice in the selection of the new officials. H. E. Gamble, of the Pennsylvania Lines, with headquarters at Altoona, Pa., was advanced from the vice-presidency to the head of the association by a unanimous vote. A. L. Woodworth, of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, of Lima, Ohio, was re-elected secretary for the year. The other officers elected were: T. F. Buckler, Scranton, Pa., first vice-president; T. E. Williams, Chicago, second vice-president; and G. I. Williams, of Boston, chemist. Committee appointments will be announced later by President Gamble.

No choice of a meeting place for next year was made, owing to the rush of other business. Four cities were in the running, and it was finally decided to let the executive committee make the selection, which will be between Milwaukee, Buffalo and Denver. Milwaukee will probably land the convention, as it received the largest number of votes from the delegates, and is more centrally located. Richmond, if the by-laws had permitted, would have stood an excellent show for next year's convention.

The afternoon session was a short one, and was held for the purpose of clearing up the unfinished business. At the close of the meeting, a number of the visiting blacksmiths took a trip through the Richmond branch of the American Locomotive Works and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad shops.

The convention has been one of the most successful in the history of the organization, according to many of the leading members. The delegates, without a dissenting voice, state that they have never been entertained better, and have had a most enjoyable visit. They are loud in their praise of Richmond and of the members of the local reception and entertainment committee.

DAVIS MENTIONED FOR JUDGESHIP

Assistant Attorney-General Has Many Friends Who Desire His Advancement.

Friends of Assistant Attorney-General R. B. Davis, of Petersburg, will urge his claims for a seat on the bench of the Supreme Court of Virginia. The suggestion has met with much favor in his home city, and should Mr. Davis consent to the use of his name, it is asserted that he would have the influence of a large number of the bar of Petersburg and of the Southside counties generally. Mr. Davis is regarded as a man of high standing in his profession, of wide legal experience and with an excellent record as a Confederate soldier.

Judge John A. Buchanan has announced his intention of retiring at the end of his present term, in 1915. The election of his successor will be at the hands of the next General Assembly. As Judge Buchanan came to the Court of Appeals from Washington County, it has been contended that the position should fall to some one from that county. The bar of Washington County has given unanimous endorsement to the candidacy of Judge Francis B. Hutton, of Abingdon. Judge Waller R. Staples, of the Corporation Court of Roanoke, has the endorsement of a large number of attorneys in the Southwest for the position, and Judge A. A. Campbell, of Wytheville, has been mentioned. William B. McIlwaine, of Petersburg, was mentioned some time ago for the position in the event that the General Assembly saw no merit in the contention that the position should go again to Southwest Virginia. The election will be one of the most interesting to come before the General Assembly, and it is probable that before the session opens there will be a number of candidates in the field with local endorsements.

GILMOUR ADDED TO FACULTY LIST

Rev. T. C. Johnson Takes Chair at Seminary Formerly Occupied by Dr. Strickler.

Changes in the faculty of the Union Theological Seminary, Ginter Park, consequent on the recent death of Rev. Givens B. Strickler, D. D., professor of systematic theology, were announced by President W. W. Moore, D. D., yesterday, following a two-day meeting of the board of trustees of the institution. Professor Thomas Cary Johnson, D. D., LL. D., now holding the chair of church history in the institution, was elected professor of systematic theology, a position to which he is regarded as being peculiarly fitted, not only by training and experience, but also because of the research work in which he engaged when preparing for publication of the life of Rev. Richard A. Abney, D. D., one of the founders of the Southern Presbyterian church, and the author of the textbook on theology accepted as the standard of that church. Dr. Johnson has been connected with the seminary for the past twenty-one years.

The board then elected to the chair of church history, heretofore occupied by Dr. Johnson, Rev. A. D. P. Gilmour, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Chester, S. C. Dr. Gilmour is a son of Matthew Gilmour, of this city, and was raised in Richmond and graduated from Hampden-Sidney College and Union Seminary. He was at one time assistant professor at the institution, giving up that position to enter an active pastorate.

Dr. Johnson is widely known as a student, teacher and author. He was born in Monroe County, Va., in 1859, and graduated from Hampden-Sidney College, the University of Virginia and Union Seminary with distinction. He took post-graduate work in the divinity school at Yale.

Dr. Gilmour took post-graduate courses at Princeton University, and was for four years pastor of the Windsor Avenue Presbyterian Church, at Bristol, Tenn. He has been spending his vacation in Europe this summer, and was expected to land in Boston on his return yesterday. Dr. Gilmour is before the seminary as a member of his election have been forwarded to him, and his answer is expected shortly. It is the hope of the seminary authorities that he will be able to make his arrangements to be here at the opening of the next session in September.

Dr. Johnson is widely known as a student, teacher and author. He was born in Monroe County, Va., in 1859, and graduated from Hampden-Sidney College, the University of Virginia and Union Seminary with distinction. He took post-graduate work in the divinity school at Yale.

HANCOCK'S CASE UP SEPTEMBER 7

Request for Postponement of Hearing of Alleged "Cocaine King" Is Allowed.

At the request of Attorney H. M. Smith, Jr., for the defense, the preliminary hearing of C. L. Hancock, alleged "cocaine king," was continued yesterday morning in Police Court until September 17. Hancock's bond of $2,000, furnished by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor Hancock, was renewed, though she was unable to be present, being confined to her home in New York City. Hancock is charged with the sale of cocaine in the city. This was one of the reasons Mr. Smith asked for a postponement. He added that Attorney R. M. Lett, of Newport News, who has also been retained by Hancock, appeared in court in the Commonwealth's Attorney Folkes offered no objection to the continuance, saying that there would be no session of the grand jury until October.

City Chemist J. M. Whitfield, who analyzed the contents of one of the fifty bottles which Hancock had in a grip when he was arrested by Detective Sergeants Wiley and Kellam and Detectives Smith and Bryant, testified that it proved to be cocaine.

Marriage License. License to marry was issued yesterday by the clerk of the city, to Harry Sporn and Mary Newman.
